

When credit unions and their members rally around a cause, we're not the only ones that win.

Alex Wood was just 9 years old when his heart gave out, which required him to receive a heart transplant—a treatment that might not have been possible without the financial support from credit unions like yours and Credit Unions for Kids. He waited for four months relying upon a Berlin Heart to keep him alive until a donor heart became available. There's a reason 170 children's hospitals are a part of the Children's Miracle Network, because Alex is evidence that miracles really do happen.

Your credit union supports Credit Unions for Kids and 100% of your donations made through your credit union stay in your community – helping kids just like Alex. Contact your credit union to see how you can donate to this worthy cause.
